PREPARING FOR A FLOOD

During heavy rains, flooding can happen very quickly. So, it is important to be prepared.

If flooding is expected and you live in a low area like a canyon, try to go to high ground.

If you leave your home, try to seal any barriers or cracks before you go.

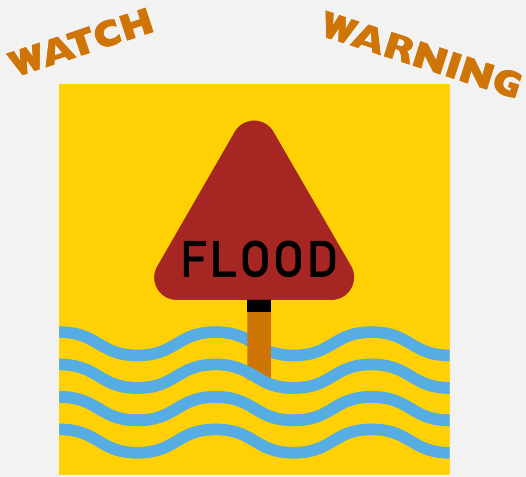

If traveling, don't cross streams or water on foot or in a car. If your car stops working, leave it and find a safe place to wait.

Be extra careful at night when it is harder to recognize flood dangers.

It also helps to know common terms. "Flood watch" means flooding may occur, and "flood warning" means there is actual flooding.

AID in PA
Autism and Intellectual Disabilities in Pennsylvania

ASERT
Bringing autism resources together.

Pennsylvania's leading source of autism-related resources and information
877-231-4244

The ASERT Collaborative is funded by the Office of Developmental Programs, PA Department of Human Services